Agriculture Department Finds Meat Prices to Consumer Excessively High.

SOLUTION IS OFFERED

Federal Supervision of Packing, Sale and Distribution of Meat Products Is Urged as Only Remedy for Existing Situation.

Washington, July 5.—The department of agriculture declares federal supervision of the packing, sale and distribution of meat products to be the only solution for the present situation in which meat prices to the consumer are so high that he is denying himself and in which prices for live stock, especially beef and lambs, are so low that the producer is losing money.

The department emphasized that "save food" signs should now be disregarded as to meat, especially beef, and wheat products. Faced by the largest wheat crop on record and with many cattle raised in response to the demand for the meat production for the army now maturing, the American people, the department asserted, must realize that no necessity for conservation of such foods any longer exists.

Retail Prices Excessive.
A survey of the meat prices, the department said, reveals that the excessive retail prices now existing are not justified by wholesale quotations. Prices to the producers have declined since the war. It was said, but prices paid by the consumer have not materially lessened. The only solution, the department believes, is more strict federal supervision.

The entire meat situation, based on conferences with senators and representatives from livestock producing regions, was summarized by the department, as follows:

"There is no longer need for meat conservation. The supply is plentiful and patriotic citizens may freely disregard the meat saving placards which are still displayed at many eating places.

Producers Face Loss.
"Beef producers and lamb producers who sell their products at this time are confronted by the danger of heavy financial losses, which tend to restrict production and cause a serious shortage in the future.

"The United States lacks a satisfactory and permanent solution of the problem until the manufacture, sale and distribution of meat products are officially supervised by authorized agents of the government, working in co-operation with state and municipal authorities whose only aim is to serve the public at large and not any particular class.

"When the federal government is enabled by law to maintain a just supervision over the meat producing industry that will prevent unfair dealings, speculation and profiteering, by furnishing the public from an unimpeachable source all the facts with regard to the industry, and when the states and municipalities are enabled by law to exercise similar supervision over intrastate and local business, then only can we expect to have fair and stable markets in which producer and consumer alike will have a square deal."

FOCH PRAISES YANKS

Americans in Paris Dine Noted French Marshal.

Head of Allied Armies Responds to Great Ovation and Demands for an Address.

Paris, July 5.—A gala performance of "Faust" at the opera, with Marshal Foch and General Pershing as the specially honored guests, concluded the notable joint French and American celebration of the Fourth of July.

The day opened with an early morning review commemorating France's participation in the American revolution and the celebration formed varied entertainment for the thousands of American soldiers marking time in Paris while awaiting transportation homeward.

The tremendous ovation given Marshal Foch at the American Chamber of Commerce luncheon and his response to persistent demands for a speech was one of the most pleasant features of the celebration.

Marshal Foch was seated beside General Pershing at the luncheon. The address of General Pershing was supposed to conclude the program, but the 400 diners, including all the prominent members of the American colony, the British ambassador, and nearly all the South American diplomats in Paris, rose and insistently demanded a speech from Marshal Foch.

The marshal spoke of the hearty co-operation of the French and American troops and the common ideals of the two peoples, and proposed a toast to "The Victorious American Armies," which he drank after touching glasses with General Pershing.

Boston, July 5.—The navy wireless station at Charleston today picked up radio message addressed to the navy department at Washington, asking that a destroyer be sent to the south end of the bay of Fundy to take the giant British dirigible R-34 in tow. Messages picked up at Washington said she ran short of fuel.

Washington, July 5.—A message late today reported the British trans-Atlantic dirigible over the south end of the Bay of Fundy to which point she requested destroyers be sent. It is expected she will land there to await them. She is running short of fuel she said. This is close to where the Handley-Page airplane flying from New Foundland to Long Island was forced to land. She was wrecked but her crew escaped.

D., July 5.—Seven were known to be dead and it was believed other bodies were in Lake Madison early today as the result of the overturning of a pleasure launch during the Fourth of July celebration last night; seven bodies have been recovered. Thirty were said to be in the launch when it went down. Other launches rushed to the rescue, but it is not known how many were picked up alive. The dead are: Ruth Pickard, Earl and Pearl Winkelpex of Colman, Susie Holmes and Ruth Holmes of Howard, Mary Werner of Salem and E. F. Olson of Colton.

DEMPSEY WON CHAMPIONSHIP TWICE MANAGER CLAIMS

BY H. C. HAMILTON, (United Press Staff Correspondent)

Toledo, Ohio, July 5.—Champion Jack Dempsey's first move will likely be toward the vaudeville or burlesque stage, he told friends here today. His purse for administering the most effective waloping ever given in a ring was a mere pittance compared with the roll collected by Jess Willard for assimilating the punishment. It was the most one-sided bout in which a world championship ever changed hands. Willard, the giant, who fell seven times in the first round before the Utah battler's pile driver blows rested today. His wife soothed his wounds. There were rumors all night long that Willard had suffered a broken jaw. He sent round about word to the United Press, however, that this was a mistake. He did not admit that he lost any teeth, but Dempsey and others declared the fallen champion spat out three of them.

Jack Kern, manager of the youthful ring wonder who completely crushed the giant adversary, declared today that Dempsey won the championship twice. He declared the referee not only helped Willard to his corner after he had been counted out at the end of the first round, but that he also lifted Dempsey's hand in the air. The timer finally made himself heard above the uproar, and it developed that Willard was being counted out when the rounded ended. Dempsey was called back into the ring to give Willard six more minutes mauling.

WILLARD BEATEN IN THREE ROUNDS

Dempsey Sails Into Champion Like Wildcat From First Sound of the Gong.

BADLY BATTERS JESS

Jack Floors His Big Antagonist Five Times in First Round and the Bell Probably Saved Him From Knockout.

Toledo, July 5.—Jack Dempsey is the new ring champion of the world. In the Bayview arena here before 40,000 people, Dempsey won the heavyweight pugilistic title from Jess Willard in just three rounds of murderous fighting. Willard, spouting blood, with one eye entirely closed, sat helpless in his corner as his seconds tossed the sponge into the center of the ring. He was utterly unable to respond.

ROUND ONE.

Willard Downed Five Times.
Willard loomed up like a Goliath against his five-inch shorter David, and opened the engagement by pumping his long left twice into Dempsey's face with force enough to make the latter blink. The challenger missed a swing, and slipping into a clinch landed three body blows with his free left hand carrying but little force. Willard held him easily in a clinch and partly turning him around, used his rapier-like left again, once to the head and once to the body after the break.

Then Dempsey, as if he had got the range, opened his heavy artillery and swung a jarring left to the jaw, followed by a right and left to the body. The almost superhuman power of the punches immediately was apparent. A partly silly, partly stupid expression overspread the champion's face, and as he rocked on his heels his whole body quivered. He pulled himself together and, as Dempsey crowded in again, shot a left to the mouth and repeated to the eye.

The blows did not even cause his youthful nemesis to hesitate, and dodging past the outstretched left as it snapped for the third time, he whipped over a right and left almost simultaneously, the blows landing flush on Willard's jaw, and for the first time in his championship career Willard was dropped to the floor. He was up again at the count of six, only to be sent to the canvas with another right as he rose slowly to his feet. The blood began to pour from his mouth. He turned away from his

Civilians and Colored Cavalrymen in Lively Clash.

More Than One Hundred Shots Are Fired, but Only Five Persons Wounded.

Bisbee, Ariz., July 5.—As the result of a fight between negro soldiers and civilians, during which more than 100 shots were fired, 14 soldiers of the 10th cavalry, (negro) are under arrest. Three negro soldiers, a deputy sheriff and a Mexican woman were wounded.

The trouble is said to have started with a taunting remark to George Sullivan, military policeman for the 19th United States cavalry, as he was passing a negro club. Sullivan was attacked, his pistol taken from him by negro troopers and police and civilians joined in the fight.

Fourteen of the negroes were arrested and turned over to the military authorities by the police after the trouble had ended.

The negro soldiers were here from Fort Huachuca under command of Colonel B. White for a parade. The officers of the regiment were attending a dance at Warren. The negroes refused to disarm at the request of their officers. The officers then started out for a general disarming of all negroes, in the course of which shots were exchanged.

TRIAL COURT TO SIT IN LONDON

Former Kaiser Will Be Accused of Violating Neutrality of Belgium and Luxemburg.

FIVE JUDGES ON BENCH

Allied Powers May Not Ask for Death Penalty, if Convicted, but Favor Banishment for Life to Remote Island.

London, July 5.—It is said the former German kaiser will be accused of violating the neutrality of Belgium and Luxemburg, following Premier Lloyd George's announcement that the former emperor would be brought to trial.

Five judges, from the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, will try his case.

All the Allies will join in a request to Holland to deliver Wilhelm to an Allied committee which will be formed to frame the procedure of the trial. There is no precedent by which the trial can be conducted.

Many Powers to Sign Demand.
The note to Holland, it is said, will be signed by 22 or 23 of the powers. He will be brought to England in a British ship and imprisoned in the Tower of London, according to the Daily Mail.

The death penalty will not be sought, the newspaper asserts, but if he is found guilty the Allies will ask his banishment for life to a remote island, following the precedent of Napoleon's exile on St. Helena.

Crown Prince May Be Tried.
The international court had intended to try the former emperor, alone, the Daily Mail says, but it is possible that the former crown prince, Frederick William, also will be arraigned before it.

Great state trials in England, of which there have been none for many years, have been conducted in Westminster hall, but it is not believed that William Hohenzollern will be given that honor.

The earl of Reading, lord chief justice, will sit for Great Britain on the international court, and Edward Douglas White, chief justice of the supreme court of the United States, is regarded as the logical choice of the American government.

Trial is looked for this autumn if it takes place, and steps for the kaiser's extradition are expected to be taken soon, if not already begun.

Searchlights That Will Guid the R-34 to Anchorage After Flight to America

Every precaution has been taken to bring the English dirigible R-34 to a safe anchorage if Major Scott and his crew succeed in flying from London to New York. This photograph shows an American sailor helping to install powerful searchlights, whose beams will guide the R-34 to its landing place in case the flight ends at night.

WHY WERE OFFICERS SENT BACK HOME?

CONGRESS INTENDS TO UNCOVER
FACTS IN CASES OF SEVERAL OF OUR GENERALS.

PUBLIC INSISTS ON KNOWING

Edwards, Bundy, Cameron, McMahon, Sibert, Buck and Others Were Relieved of Their Commands in France and Returned Under Orders.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.

Washington.—Congress has been engaged in washing a lot of army linen in public. Some of it is dirty. Some of it is merely soiled, and some of it is as clean as a newly pitched tent.

The army officers have been washing out some of their own linen and have not taken the trouble to camouflage perfectly the tubbing process. To get away from wash day, it may be that some individuals in the army and of some of the army departments have reason for rancor.

The country may as well make up its mind that for some time to come it must listen to or read about charges and countercharges affecting the military establishment as it has existed in the time of stress, and about such of it as is to continue in the time of peace.

Already there are evidences that the friends of some of the high ranking officers of the service will demand that congress investigate the whys and wherefores of this man's or that man's relief from active duty, and the whys and the wherefores in the cases of officers who were not given the promotion in the army at large which the affected ones and their friends believe they deserved.

Washington today is just as curious as it was weeks ago in some cases, and months ago in other cases, of certain regular officers of high rank who were relieved of command in France and sent back to the United States. No one knows today why they came back, and no one will know until congressional activities shall turn affairs to the light.

Some Cases for Explanation.
It may be that some of these men will suffer in reputation if the whole truth is told, and suffer more than they have suffered from the mere public knowledge of the fact that they were relieved from duty. Others of them may be vindicated before the country, for proof may be adduced that they were relieved without reason and that because of personal favoritism they were humiliated.

When Maj. Gen. Clarence R. Edwards was sent back from France, New England, whose troops he had commanded, raised a row. Boston feuded the general and acclaimed him a hero. Representatives in congress are trying to find out why Edwards was sent back. Edwards himself has said nothing. So far as the records go he had a clean bill of efficiency in France.

Maj. Gen. Omar Bundy, an Indiana man, a classmate of Edwards at West Point by the way, also was sent back from France. When he went to his home in Hoosierdom he was acclaimed as a hero, and there certainly was reason for it because of his deeds, his initial deeds at any rate, in the Chateau-Thierry section. What happened to Bundy after he did his fine bit in the preliminary stages no one knows.

Maj. Gen. George H. Cameron, a Chicago man, a classmate at West Point of Edwards and Bundy, also was sent back from France. His division covered itself with immortelles and laurels at the fight near the Vesle river. What happened to this Chicago soldier thereafter no one seems to know except that he came back to the United States, of course by order of the general commanding.

Maj. Gen. John E. McMahon also came back to the United States after his troops had fought a good fight.

What the subsequent events were which worked together to bring relief from his command for McMahon and a trip under orders to the United States nobody knows, but congress it is said is going to find out.

Deep Mystery About Sibert.
Maj. Gen. William L. Sibert, who commanded the first division in France, trained his division and was ready for the fight when he was ordered back to the United States. The mystery in Sibert's case is perhaps deeper than that in any of the others.

Maj. Gen. Beaumont B. Buck, the first general officer of the United States forces to be given the highest French decorations for valor in the field and to receive the American medal for the same thing, was sent back from France after getting these high honors for courage. What happened to Buck? Nobody knows, and congress, it is said, intends to find out.

There are other cases. It may be that the facts concerning each will be turned to the light before congress gets through with the thing. Whether these officers are to lose from the making clear of the truth, or whether they are to gain, nobody knows. The saddest thing in the cases is that before long, if congress can compass it, everything will be laid bare.

There was an aftermath of investigations after the Civil war and after the Spanish war. Everybody remembers the Fitz-John Porter case and the Miles-Corbin-Egan cases. Congress today is digging into army matters and it probably will continue to dig at the extra session with increased avidity. The aftermath of war sometimes is as bad as war itself.

Two Hundred Years Ago.

"And herein it is that I take upon me to make such a bold assertion that all the world are mistaken in their practice about women; for I cannot think that God Almighty made them . . . with souls capable of the same accomplishments with men, and all to be only stewards of our houses, cooks, and slaves." This advanced doctrine, which in its climax sounds somewhat as if it were uttered in a present day convention, was written, as is noted in a recent book on English literature, some two hundred years ago, by Daniel Defoe.—Outlook.

WOMAN'S REALM

Elmgren-Swanson

(North Branch Review)

A pretty home June wedding was that of Miss Alice Marie Elmgren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Elmgren of North Branch, Minn., and Senator Hilding Swanson of Brainerd, Minn.

The ceremony took place at 9 P. M., Tuesday, June 24th, at the home of the bride at North Branch, Rev. A. G. Hammerberg of the Lutheran church of North Branch officiating in the presence of many relatives and guests and the nuptial vows were spoken before an altar of ferns, flowers of pink and white and white wedding bells.

The home was adorned with green and white wedding bells and maiden hair ferns and baskets of white peonies, pink and white carnations. The centerpiece was a basket of pink and white sweet peas and maiden hair ferns.

Miss Selma H. Helzer, at the piano, played the bridal music, with Miss Ruth E. Helzer at the violin and Miss Stella L. Rosness sang, all three young ladies from St. Paul.

First Lieutenant Edwin O. Swanson, M. C., U. S. A., of Camp Grant, Ill., brother of the groom, was the best man. First Lieutenant Arvid F. Elmgren of the U. S. Marines of Washington, D. C., brother of the bride, was attendant. The ushers were John Finch, brother-in-law of the bride, of St. Paul, and Albert F. Hallberg of Minneapolis.

Mrs. John Finch, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Miss Mable E. Swanson, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. The ring bearer was Maxine Bradley of Minneapolis, the flower girls were Maxine Finch of St. Paul and Elaine Rosness of Minneapolis and Wilhelmina Rosness of Minneapolis took the part of cupid, carrying the bride's train. Miss Selma Windahl was attendant.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of all white charmeuse silk satin with hand embroidered roses, long train and a veil of white silk net and carried bouquet of marguerites and sweet peas and wore a necklace of La Tausa pearls, a gift of the groom to the bride. The matron of honor was attired in pale green messaline silk, trimmed in gold lace and carried a shepherd staff. The bridesmaid wore a flesh colored georgette crepe and carried a shepherd staff. The mother of the bride wore a gown of taupe silk dress and a corsage of sweet peas. The flower girls wore silk net dresses with maline bows and each carried a basket of flowers.

The groom was attired in full dress and attendants Lieut. Swanson and Lieut. Elmgren were attired in army uniforms, the latter in Marine summer dress, white, uniform.

After the ceremony, a bridal supper was served on trays, passed around by Messrs. Roy Horton, Oliver Elmgren and William J. Swanson. About 75 out of town guests were present.

The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Elmgren, pioneer residents of North Branch.

The groom is a lawyer, associated in the practice of law, with his brother at Brainerd. He is a graduate of Valparaiso University and the Law School of Yale University. He was state representative from Crow Wing county, Minn., from 1917 to 1919, and is now Senator from Crow Wing and Morrison counties, Minn., to 1923. He enlisted in the U. S. Marines subject to call on or before Dec. 1, 1918, but was not called on account of the armistice.

Senator and Mrs. Swanson will spend their honeymoon at White Bear Lake and a trip to Chicago and east and will be at home after July 26th at Brainerd.

Another Account of Wedding

A pretty home wedding took place Tuesday evening, June 24, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Elmgren when their daughter Alice became the bride of Sen. Hilding Swanson of Brainerd. A large number of friends and relatives from out of town were present, among them notable members of the Legislature and officers of the Army and Navy.

McKinnon-Miller

Charles L. Miller and Hazel E. McKinnon were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Swindells at 8:30 on Wednesday evening. The young couple were attended by Miss Gladys Young and Louis Whirly. The bride and bridesmaid who were dressed white presented an attractive appearance. There were present at the wedding: Mrs. May McKinnon and two daughters, Goldie and Margaret, of Hankinson, N. D., Miss Edna Young sister of the bridesmaid, members of the family of the bridegroom and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Swindells who arrived in Brainerd three weeks ago from England.

The bride who has been for some time a student in the local high school is very highly respected, and the bridegroom is known as a young man of excellent character. Mr. and Mrs. Miller expect to make their home in Brainerd and their many friends wish them happiness and success. The marriage service was read by Rev. Fred Errington, pastor of the First Congregational church.

Peterson-Payne

Miss Jennie Peterson and V. R. Payne were married at the parsonage of the Swedish Lutheran church by Rev. Elov G. Carlson on July 5. The bride was charmingly attired in a cream colored suit with a picture hat to match and carried pink and white carnations. The bridegroom was formerly a resident of Brainerd and recently returned home after two years' service in the world war.

The young couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Finn of Duluth, Mr. Finn being a brother of the bridegroom. Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Payne, Mrs. Belle Payne mother of the groom and Cleve Payne of Duluth.

After a short visit at Nisswa the newlyweds will return to Duluth where they will make their future home. The Dispatch joins their friends in extending the best wishes for their continued happiness and prosperity.

NET FROCKS ARE QUITE IN FAVOR

Fine White Material Is Richly Combined With Panels of Batiste.

ONE PIECE GOWN STRAIGHT

Garments Are Elaborately Draped and Beffilled—Built of Organdie Cotton and Georgette Crepe in Many Styles.

The warm weather has brought forth a delightful array of the charming dresses of fine white net richly combined with embroidered panels of batiste which are now taking the place of the lingerie gown for the elaborate occasions when such a summer frock is needed.

The fine round thread nets lend themselves beautifully for this sort of dress and are accepted for informal evening affairs as well as for those formal afternoon occasions such as country club teas and bridge parties. Now and then, observes a fashion correspondent, one finds the embroidery on the net usually done in fine white cotton thread in a small trailing employed to put the dress together and add further richness, for the idea of this sort of frock seems to be to make it as elaborate as possible. Coarse white net is used for the tight slip underneath, over which is hung the first layer of the outside material.

One elaborate gown shows a very skimpy undershirt with three small ruffles of the net placed one above the other upside down along the bottom. The embroidered net is used in an apron drape for the front of the skirt and has a very wide sash of eiel blue satin ribbon running under the edge of this apron and draping over the hips to be tied in a very wide bow at the waistline in the back. This sash is so wide indeed that it appears almost like a bustle of the satin placed at the back. The bodice is put together with wide fillet lace and is quite as elaborate as the skirt, repeating an embroidered panel in a vestee effect. The sleeves are longer than the French models but do not come quite to the elbow.

An Effective Combination.

One of the effective combinations in the elaborate type of dress is displayed in a gown of white organdie and white net combined. The net, embroidered in a very handsome design, forms the upper part of the gown, while the organdie, tucked from waist to hem, is placed in side panels. The finest of Irish crochet lace is used as a trimming on this frock, edging the collar, which is cut in deep points in the front away from the throat, and edging the two pockets placed on the front net panel in the skirt. The short sleeves are also edged with lace.

No sash is used on this dress, and because of the beauty of the design and the material none indeed is needed. One sees any number of dresses with the finely tucked side panels in all sorts of fine cotton materials. As the tucks are as a rule not more than half an inch wide and are placed so closely together as almost to overlap they do not thicken the figure in spite of the fact that they run round instead of up and down.

While the white dress is the preferred now and again one finds a color combination worthy of note, as, for instance, in a soft little one-piece thing which has the upper part entirely of finest plaited chiffon pale pink in color. The lower part of the skirt is made of an embroidered panel of net applied onto the chiffon and finished off at the sides and back with enough of the plain net to give the needed width, and let us note, in passing, that skirts are somewhat wider than the spring first showing predicted.

It is well known that thin fabrics are not graceful when skimmed and the tight straight effects must be studiously avoided for really good and graceful results.

Solves a Problem.

The use of fine net with other materials this summer solves a problem of what to do with the embroidered panels which come from the Philippines, Switzerland or France and which so often are too much for a shirt waist and yet not enough for the dress. Some of the most pleasing results obtained are shown by cleverly putting these panels together with handsome lace, fillet or Irish crochet, and filling out all the required spaces with the fine net.

In speaking of this sort of gown one must not forget that the sash is often its most important part, for one is just as apt to find it forming almost the entire back as not, the narrow inch-wide string belts being left for other dresses. If, however, one prefers the narrower type inch-wide moire ribbon with picot edges is used in two strips.

Contrasting with the elaborately draped and beffilled frock we find the straight one-piece frock, almost perfectly straight from neck to hem, much in favor. The chemise frock it is called and is made of embroidered panels of net and lace or embroidered batiste combined with the net. On this type of dress the sash is very wide and tied its full width about the waist as straight and unrelieved by folds or drawing in as a child's. Of course the dress itself buttons down the back and the long lines thus remain unbroken.

Ruffles as Trimming.

Wee ruffles of plain organdie and very narrow edges of Valenciennes lace are used as trimming. In the place of the braiding the organdie is now and then covered with machine stitching, which has the same effect, always done in white, as for some reason this is to be a white summer, at least as far as our finest frocks go. This stitching was used a great deal during the winter on hats and turbans and on silk dresses, but as yet this is the first season it has appeared in the thinner fabrics, therefore its presence tells of its being the newest thing.

One of the most delightful fabrics for the less elaborate dress than those described is the cross-barred organdie, so sheer and fine that it is a delight to wear and behold endlessly. It is found made up into a rather dressy morning frock of almost shirt-waist simplicity, though the addition of tiny ruffles of footing along the wide low collar, along the sleeves and on the tops of the little pockets placed on the front of the skirt relieves the dress of any plainness whatever. A straight round belt holds in the waist and at the back a wide sash of the organdie is edged the full length, with the footing frilled into place. Accompanying this delightful frock is a wide-brimmed hat of the same material with a soft edge and bows of white net standing up at just the right angle in front.

Organdie Still in Favor.

Of course we are not to think for a moment that organdie has lost its favor, though these finer dresses have pushed it somewhat to one side on dressy occasions. Organdie is delightful to see on the other person. It belongs by right to youth and slim figures, for its rigidity and its extreme thinness are both against it in the average woman's eyes.

The brilliant colors are much in favor for fine frocks and can be made as simple or as fancy as one desires. One of rose pink has a tight undershirt with a deep hem and over this hang four panels of the pink organdie edged with narrow lace frills. A bib of the organdie with the lace extending from the neck to the bottom of the bib appearing below the pink satin sash is introduced in the front of the waist to give the popular vestee effect, which seems to rage with the same favor the early spring gave it. The back of the waist is plain, relieved at the neck only by a deep collar of the lace-edged organdie and the sleeves, short to the elbow, have also the lace frills finishing them.

NECESSARY TO KEEP BOOKS

Without Accurate Accounts No Form of Business Can Be Successfully Carried On.

Accountancy, which is the science of systematizing business, has a history that runs back at least 4,000 years. Very early in the development of nations it was found that in commerce as well as in the affairs of state, systematic and careful account-keeping were indispensable. These systems were, at first, crude and laborious, but they at least kept the finances of the nation and the marts of trade from being chaotic.

The invention of double entry book-keeping early in the fifteenth century by the merchants and bankers of Venice gave to the commerce of Europe an invaluable trade instrument, and one without which the great commercial enterprises of the later centuries could hardly have existed.

And so it has been on down to the present time; there has been a parallel progress between the accomplishments of commerce and the science of accounting, and it is known to every man in business that the former could not continue without the latter. Even the most unbusinesslike people know this much, and we can hardly imagine anyone silly enough to attempt to carry on any kind of a business enterprise without keeping books.

Bookkeeping, as a formal subject of study, is taught in most of the public and private schools of this country, but it is only that form of bookkeeping that applies to the affairs of the merchant or the shopkeeper. The public has yet to learn that bookkeeping is quite as necessary in the prosperity of the wageworker, the salaried man, the farmer and the housekeeper as it is to the shopkeeper, the merchant or the manufacturer.—Exchange.

PROHIBITION

Duluth "should worry." It has had two years' experience and has failed to find that prohibition lessens the labor supply, lowers labor efficiency, decreases production, hurts business, increases the drug habit, breeds Bolshevism or does any of the things the brewers claim for it. This city is the best possible retaliation of all the brewer propaganda.

On the other hand this propaganda is the best possible argument that the liquor dealers and brewers deserve no more mercy than the Germans of Germany. They are of the same breed of animals. Their especial brand of argument is found in newspapers, magazines, movies, plays, bill boards, and in every known form of publicity.

They tell the public a hundred ways to brew and still, how to add this or that to boiling water, and how to ferment to make strong liquors. In every possible way, they propose to make conditions as bad as they can, promote law violation, discontent, opposition to law enforcement, and increase of drug using.

In this, they are entirely consistent. It is exactly the program they have always followed whenever a state or locality has placed any restriction upon the use of beer or liquors. Without their aid and support as accomplices, there could be no blind pigs and there would be little violation of liquor laws. They can no more be trusted to observe the law than can the Germans of Germany to observe the peace treaty.

No one probably expects prohibition to work miracles among adults addicted to drink. It will cure some, it will make some worse through worse liquor; it will make a great many who seldom or never drink to excess total abstainers. It is almost impossible to prevent men from being or doing what they are determined to be or do.

Moreover, every case of drunkenness, every fatality through self-stilled liquor will now have greatly added "news value." They will be exploited, magnified and multiplied. In this the brewers will aid. Tales of great carousals held in cellars, of private carousals, of the rich who have while the poor are denied the blessed boon of drunkenness, will also be seen down broadcast.

But for all the infants of today the saloon has become but a something of which they will learn in history. Strong drink and drunken men will be also things almost as completely beyond their personal knowledge or experience. There are already hundreds of children in Duluth who can not remember ever having seen even the outside of a saloon and who never saw a drunken man.

The United States is the first nation that ever undertook to accomplish this. It is the first to put liquor into the history of the past. It is the first to undertake to rid itself of the scourge. By its ability to so govern itself, it must prove its fitness to help or to take a leading part in the governing of other peoples for whatever the league of nations may be, to the great powers who control it, it is in fact a super-government as to all others.

We have said "thou shalt not" to ourselves. Unless we can abide by this for ourselves, surely we are not fit to say: "Thou shalt" or "thou shalt not" to others.—Duluth News-Tribune.

OLD PAPERS—5c BUNDLE

PRECEDENCE WILL WORRY OFFICIALS

STATE DEPARTMENT MUST FIX UP TABLE BEFORE NOTABLES ARRIVE FROM ABROAD.

MANY OF THEM ARE COMING

This Matter Always Has Been a Source of Much Trouble in Washington, and It Never Has Been Properly Settled.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
 Washington.—Procedure always has bothered the officials in Washington. It is going to bother them a lot more within an exceedingly short time. The influx of foreign visitors of rank which is promised will keep certain men in the state department busy for some weeks fixing up a precedence table, for it would never do to put one man ahead of another whom he should follow. This sort of thing produces rows and ruins a social function so far as the foreigners present are concerned.

Before long there will be several members of royal families in this country, and later on there will come high officials of European and other governments to attend the first meeting of the League of Nations, provided, of course, that the League of Nations becomes a fact with the United States as a member. Precedent will trouble the state department perhaps as much as diplomatic procedure in other ways will trouble it.

Precedence, so far as Washington society is concerned, always has been, so to speak, a sore thumb, and one which has had an unpleasant way of protruding itself at afternoon teas, dinner parties and evening balls and receptions. It always has been this way, for the capital of the country is no different today in this respect than it was in the days of Washington, Jackson, Van Buren, Lincoln and Roosevelt.

Problems Never Settled Here.
 Nobody knows definitely yet whether the speaker of the house of representatives, in attending a social function, should be given a place ranking so to speak, the place given to the chief justice of the United States. Once on a time the justices of the Supreme court rebelled because it was understood that at a reception given in their honor the cabinet was to have precedence over them.

On another occasion, so it is reported, a speaker of the house wanted to know if the precedence matter had been fixed, because it was not his intention to attend if some one who did not rank him were given the place in the foreground.

The things which affect the men affect the women; that is the wives, the mothers, the sisters and daughters of officials when they go calling, or when they want to go calling, for sometimes they do not go if they begin to think that their intention was to call on somebody who ought first to call on them.

This, so far as the women are concerned, is nothing new. Gideon Welles, who was secretary of the navy for eight years through the administrations of Lincoln and Johnson, wrote a diary. It is under date of March 2, 1865, he says: "Speaker Colfax is grossly because he thinks my wife ought to call on his mother." Then Mr. Welles says that Secretary of State Seward says this is the etiquette in the case, but he adds in effect that Seward always did have queer notions.

In another place in Secretary Welles' diary he says that at a reception given at the White House Secretary of State Seward bungled things by showing the legations in ahead of the cabinet. It will be seen from this that in the days of Lincoln and of Johnson the secretary of state looked after the matters of precedence, and was the high court concerning matters of calling etiquette and other things.

Subordinates Handle It Now.
 It is somewhat interesting, and very possibly amusing, to think of Secretary Seward, who had a Civil war on his hands and all kinds of trouble with England and with France, being compelled to decide as to whether Mrs. Smith, the wife of a third assistant secretary of something or other, should pay the first call on Mrs. Jones, the wife of another sub-secretary of something or other.

Things have changed somewhat, and now the work of fixing up matters of precedence is out of the hands of the secretary of state and in the hands of one of his subordinates. However, if the emperor of Timbuctoo should be given a place in line back of the akond of Swat when he ought to precede him, the secretary of state would hear from the matter within 24 hours, and hear from it somewhat noisily. A cabinet officer cannot shunt onto the shoulders of his subordinate the blame for anything which affects the diplomatic corps.

The United States is a democracy, but when it comes to a question of precedence in Washington, it is as bad as any military autocracy on the face of the earth.

There are, of course, exceptions to all things. There are officials in Washington who do not care a weed whether a subordinate official precedes them or not, unless the thing looks as if it were pre-arranged, or as if the subordinate were pushing himself in ahead and doing it, so to speak, on purpose.

Mme. Petrova, seven-year-old Freddie Verdi, and "Shep" in a charming scene from "The Light Within." "Shep" knows more than lots of folks, as you'll agree when you see him act, and as for Freddie—well, Freddie earns more than his dad, which is saying a lot for any boy.

The Al G. Barnes wild animal circus is a good show and the two performances given in Brainerd Thursday, July 3, drew big crowds from a radius of thirty miles from Brainerd.

The show is clean, up to date, the exhibits of animals complete and all acts in the show, animal and human, are up to standard. The management was a courteous one and most accommodating.

By establishing the circus near the gas house it put them close to railway tracks and thus caused a minimum amount of wear and tear to Laurel street.

FLOWERS' HOURS OF SLEEP

That They Differ Is a Proof of the Adaptability of Everything in Nature.

That flowers sleep is evident to the most casual observer. The beautiful daisy opens at sunrise and closes at sunset, whence its name "day's eye." The morning glory opens its flower with the day. The "four o'clock" awakes at four o'clock in the morning, but closes its eyes in the middle of the day, and the dandelion is in full bloom only while there is strong light. The habit of some flowers is certainly curious, and furnishes one of the many instances which prove the singular adaptability of everything in nature.

The reason is found in the method by which this class of flowers is fertilized. Flowers which are fertilized by night flying insects derive no advantage from being open by day; and, on the other hand, those which are fertilized by bees would gain nothing by being open at night. Nay, it would be a disadvantage, because it would render them liable to be robbed of their honey and pollen by insects which are incapable of fertilizing them. It is possible, then, that the closing of flowers may have reference to the habit of insects, and it may be observed, also, in support of this, that wind-fertilized flowers never sleep.

Blind Horses.

The manner in which blind horses get about without coming to more harm than they do is remarkable. They rarely, if ever, hit their heads against a fence or stone wall, and will sheer off when they come near one. It appears from careful observation that it is neither shade nor shelter which warns them of the danger. On an absolutely sunless and windless day their behavior is the same. Their olfactory nerves doubtless become very sensitive, for they will poke their heads downward in search of water fifty yards before they come to a stream crossing the roadway.

It cannot be an abnormally developed sense of hearing which leads them to do this, for they will act alike though the water be a stagnant pool. Men who have been blind for any great length of time develop some such similar instincts to blind horses.

Women and Mice.

It is contended that woman's fear of mice arises from their being classed as vermin. The fact that rats carry disease and plague is not disputed. Mice may not be quite so dangerous. Their bites and scratches are trifling. But they carry disease and dirt, and a baby sleeping in a cradle, for instance, may suffer in consequence. Mothers have for ages been affected by this dread, and in seeking to protect their offspring from contact with mice have unconsciously, we are told, bred that feeling of nervousness which has provided the comic artist with his periodical picture.

NATION LEADS WORLD

Daniels Calls Attention to Position of United States.

Secretary of the Navy Says America Made Recent Conflict a War Against War.

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 5.—In an address here, Secretary of the Navy Daniels declared a nation could no more withdraw into its shell and permit the fires of anarchy to destroy the world than a man could think of his own safety as he heard the cries of children in a burning building.

"We entered this war highly resolved," he said, "not to cease until we not only had won victory, but until we truly made this war against war. In this hour of triumph, our minds are still exalting over the dazzling position we have leaped to almost overnight as leader of the world and the acknowledged counselor of the ancient governments of the old world."

"If we would still lead to new and greater victories, if we would still stride at the forefront of the world's great march, if we would still be the wise counselor of nations, we must go forward, not like some monstrous Von Hindenburg, armed to the teeth, crushing remorselessly friend and foe alike, but more, and I say it in all reverence, as Christ himself went forward, strong but not glorying in our strength; merciful to the weak, just to the unfortunate, but relentless toward all evil. Let us learn from the awful lesson of this war the irresistible advantage of united effort."

 Little John and his mother were visiting at the minister's home one day, when John picked up a Testament from the table. A week later, while at the minister's home again, he asked the book and said: "Why doesn't God come and get His book?"

Steel and Iron.

Steel is a kind of iron which can easily be hammered out thin without cracking and can be made extremely hard by being heated and then cooled quickly. It is different from ordinary iron because of the amount of carbon in it. Wrought iron contains less carbon than steel and so it cannot be made so hard; cast iron contains more and so is brittle.

CONVENTIONS ON FOR COMING WEEK

Busy Week in Chamber of Commerce Circles, State Veterinarians and Sons of Norway Coming

AUTO TOURISTS HERE JULY 25th

Seventy Cars of State Automobile Association to Establish Night Control in Brainerd

The coming week will be an active one in Chamber of Commerce circles, as four days of the week will be taken up with conventions.

On July 9th and 10th, the State Veterinary Medical association will have the use of the rooms for their sessions and a committee of the Chamber will co-operate with President C. A. Nelson in entertaining the visitors.

On the 11th and 12th, the Sons of Norway will occupy the rooms, their summer convention being scheduled for those two days. The secretary has assisted the local committee in getting out the program and will also be on the job to make the stay of the visitors pleasant.

Auto Tourists.

On July 25th, the annual auto run of the State Automobile association to Walker will be held and a letter to the Chamber of Commerce indicated that about 70 cars, with an estimate of four persons to the car, will be here on the evening of the 25th and will make Brainerd their night control.

It will be necessary to arrange a central parking place for these cars after the local garages are filled and to place men in charge during the night. The cars will require gasoline, oil and perhaps overhauling and local garage men are urged to be prepared to meet the emergency and to assist in giving the visitors a welcome.

Many Inquiries

A number of inquiries for summer cottages and the best fishing grounds are coming in daily and are being promptly answered. The number this year greatly exceeds those of any past season and the secretary is listing hotels and resorts, with the aim to co-operate in entertaining the visitors and also in assisting resort owners. By advising the Chamber the number of rooms or cottages available, prices, etc., owners will accommodate visitors and add to their own income. The class of inquiries indicate that people of wealth and refinement are now headed toward the great summer resort section of Northern Minnesota in large numbers.

Golf Club

A letter of inquiry from Waterloo, Iowa, under date of July 3rd, relative to a golf course near Brainerd, has been received. The writer states that he understands that the links have been established near Gull lake. "If this is the case," he writes, "I will bring a party there for next month." The establishment of a country club near Brainerd was one of the Chamber suggestions, but efforts to enlist interest in this have thus far failed.

Tourists "Corner"

An extra quantity of Scenic Highway maps have been ordered and a corner in the Chamber of Commerce rooms has been designated for the accommodations of tourists and others seeking information relative to lakes, fishing, resorts, etc., as well as auto roads leading to and from the city. Arrangements were recently made in the Twin Cities to have a supply of state maps and other information furnished for the use of tourists and others.

Regular Meeting

The regular meeting of the Chamber will come on July 23rd, the fourth Wednesday in the month and there will be no other meetings unless some special occasion requires. The officers make the usual urgent appeal to members to attend these monthly meetings.

Pageant Picture

Arrangements have been made to have the first showing of the pageant picture taken at Cass Lake for the Northern Minnesota Development Association in this city under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce. The date of this showing will be known as soon as the completed picture is ready. The negatives have been inspected and are declared first class in every respect and the secretary is assured that a very interesting and well balanced picture will be the result.

MONTANA SCORCHED BY INTENSE HEAT

State Looks to Northern Minnesota for Aid to Save its Cattle and Sheep From Perishing

MILLION HEAD FOR MINNESOTA

Urged by State Agricultural Department that Crow Wing County do its Share

Montana is suffering from the extreme heat which has dried up their grasses so completely as to make it necessary for the cattlemen to find pasturage and hay for their stock elsewhere. Efforts have been made to secure pasturage for a million head of stock in Minnesota. Most of this stock is to be taken care of in northern Minnesota. It is urged by the State Agricultural Department that Crow Wing county farmers do their share. If any of the farmers have land that they would care to rent for this purpose, let them make their wants known to the county agent at once. The cattle will be kept here only this summer and then sent to market, so very little development in the way of clearing, fencing, wells and buildings is necessary. In this case the tracts will have to be large enough so that the cattle can be handled in rather large herds. Settlers with unfenced fields in the area might get together and send in requests for such herds.

Crow Wing county has numerous tracts of this nature and it is possible for farmers to secure land for rent, areas which now are lying practically idle, and in this way assist Montana farmers in fitting their stock for market this fall.

BRAINERD MAN LAUDED ON FOURTH

Backus, Minn., July 5—"John D. Rockefeller would gladly give all his wealth, his stock and bonds, railroads and tank lines," said Daniel DeLury of Walker in a Fourth of July address at Backus, "if he could look and eat and feel as young as Bill Graham of Brainerd," and the crowd applauded.

Mr. Graham is a noted cornetist who plays in the Brainerd City band which furnished the music at the Backus celebration. He is built on long and broad lines, not quite as generous as Pat Wood, but still very substantially and is blessed with a world of good humor and love for his fellow man.

Four thousand people were at Backus, summer visitors galore, farmers, business men, shopmen and others. The band made a hit, played in the parade and gave a fine concert in the evening.

Backus won the ball game, defeating a second team from Brainerd.

OUTDOOR SERVICES

Interest Growing. Meetings at Gregory Park and High School Sunday Evening

The interest in the outdoor services has grown to such an extent that there will be two outdoor services held Sunday evening at 7:30.

The services will be held in Gregory Park with Rev. Frederick Errington as leader and Rev. Hans Wolner as speaker. At the Washington school grounds, the churches of the South Side will unite in the services at the same hour with a speaker.

The people are very loth to go indoors these days but the experiment of establishing the worship outside is proving most popular. With these two places it is making it convenient for all to reach the place of worship.

ILLITERACY SHOWN BY DRAFT PAPERS

CONGRESSMEN AND OTHERS WERE ASTOUNDED BY REVELATIONS OF QUESTIONNAIRES.

FEDERAL ACTIVITY SPURRED

To the Ignorant American-Born Are Added Those of Foreign Birth Who Have Never Learned the English Language.

By EDWARD B. CLARK.
Washington.—Members of congress have been astounded by the percentage of illiteracy among young American which was disclosed by the questions asked during the draft. Congressmen are no more astounded than are the heads of the educational bureau in this town who, despite their supposed comprehensive methods of getting accurate information, did not think that the illiteracy in this country was one-third as great as it actually is.

It is apparent that the illiteracy disclosures made by the draft have spurred federal activities along the lines of inquiry and perhaps real investigation with a view to remedying the situation in so far as the federal authorities can do anything. Educational matters largely are in the hands of the states. Illiteracy has been found to exist in many places where it was not thought to be.

In addition to American-born soldiers in the United States army who could neither read nor write, there were a good many men of foreign birth who could neither speak, read nor write in English, but who could do all three things in their native tongue.

Places Where English Isn't Used.

There is a double problem, therefore, in this matter of increasing the educational facilities of the United States and of increasing as well the attendance at the schools which are a part of these advantages. The desire is, of course, not only to enable every American boy and girl to read and write his and her own tongue, but to teach the English branches to the foreigners who have come here and who have so grouped themselves that they have little chance to hear English spoken.

There are places in New York city where one can stand on the street half an hour while the throngs pass by and only occasionally hear a word of English spoken. "There are some country districts in the United States where foreign languages are the medium of exchange of ideas and the medium of exchange in all local trading matters.

Congressmen realize that in some sections of the country the foreigners willfully have refrained from learning the English language. Thousands of men and women have come to the United States to live in sequestered communities and there, as one might say, maliciously have attempted to perpetuate not only the language of the country from which they came, but its institutions, its prejudices, its social trends and even its hatreds.

Some pathetic things appear in the stories which are told of the American expeditionary forces in France. Cases have been found where parents have inquired of the government officials where their sons were, saying they had not heard a word from them since they went abroad. On many occasions it has been found that the soldiers did not write home because they did not know how. These men had a high kind of pride which kept them from requesting the Y. M. C. A., the K. of C. or the Red Cross representatives to write their letters for them.

Good Result of Army Service.

One thing, however, the service in the army did for many of the illiterates. It bred in them a desire to learn to read and to write. Hundreds of them took advantage of such educational advantages as were possible while abroad and others took advantage of the same things in the camps of the United States. Try, however, as the officers of the service did, it was impossible to carry on regularly educational classes in the United States army during the time of field operations abroad and in the encampments at home.

One thing did result from the participation in the service of hundreds of young Americans of foreign birth who when they entered the army could not speak the language of their country. Orders were given them in the English tongue, and soon they learned definitely certain words. It was found in some of the camps in this country that men of certain nationalities had been placed together in companies where they had every opportunity to continue the speech of the land from which they came. The unwisdom of this system soon was discovered, and as quickly as it could be done the men speaking foreign tongues were separated into small groups and put into English-speaking companies. It is probable that there is not a soldier today in the United States army, or who has been discharged therefrom after six months' service, who cannot speak and understand English.

Illiteracy among the young men and women of the United States who are of American parentage is a difficult thing for members of congress to understand. It is known that compulsory education laws are on the statute books of nearly every state in the Union. How is it, then, it is being asked, that so many thousands of men who were of school age while these laws were in effect managed to escape attendance at school?

The Colorado River.

The Colorado is one of the great rivers of North America. Formed in southern Utah by the confluence of the Green and Grand, it intersects the northwestern corner of Arizona and, becoming the eastern boundary of Nevada and California, flows southward until it reaches tidewater in the Gulf of California, Mexico. It drains a territory of 300,000 square miles and, traced back to the rise of its principal source, writes C. A. Higgins, is 2,000 miles long. At two points, the Needles and Yuma on the California boundary, it is crossed by a railroad. Elsewhere its course lies far from Caucasian settlements and far from the routes of common travel, in the heart of a vast region fenced on the one hand by arid plains and on the other by formidable mountains.

Crystals That "Healed."

"Healing" is a phenomenon observed in the mineral kingdom, crystals being occasionally found that have been broken and afterward reunited through chemical or mechanical action. A century and a half ago Sir David Brewster called attention to healing in glass, and at a recent meeting of an English microscopical club pieces of heated glass formed a novel exhibit. A magnifying glass had become cracked while in use in the usual metal ring mounting. The ring was tightened up, and the broken surfaces became gradually attached or healed. Another piece of glass had been cracked and afterward clamped, and the cracked parts had not only become firmly joined but the point of union was to be detected only with difficulty. The glass, however, appeared to be not quite as strong as before.

SPORTS

LITTLE FALLS 8, BRAINERD 1

Central Minnesota League games played to record attendance on the Fourth of July, the weather being superb and the games occurring at towns which had large celebrations and which had advertised the games widely.

Ironton Won Both.

Ironton, Minn., July 5.—Two games were played by Ironton and Crosby. At the morning game in Ironton, Ironton won 2 to 0 from Crosby. Ironton's battery was Clemens and McGarry. Crosby's was Woock and Petrabor.

In the afternoon Ironton played at Crosby where the Fourth of July celebration was held and Ironton won 6 to 2. Batteries for Ironton, Arnold, Clemens and McGarry; for Crosby, Lewis, Siebenthal and Petrabor. Judge Lewis was pounded out of the box in the seventh inning. Arnold of Ironton pitched four innings.

Verndale Winner.

Verndale, Minn., July 5.—Verndale, one under the wire in the tenth inning and won handily from Staples 3 to 2. Each team had one error chalked up. Staples had six hits, Verndale seven. Batteries for Verndale, Bye and Malloy, for Staples, Russell and Linehan. A $200 purse had been put up by the Fourth committee and the teams played wonderful ball.

Brainerd Lost.

Little Falls, Minn., July 5.—Brainerd minus its pitching star, "Lefty" Hier, faced Little Falls by taking two men from the field, Rich Bush and Carlson, and putting them on the mound. The team played gamely, but lost 8 to 1 to Little Falls.

Wood of Little Falls, bent on gaining a no-hit, no-run game, saw that vanish when Benda got a three bagger and others swelled the total to eight hits for Brainerd. In the eighth Brainerd had three men on bases, but could not advance them. The score by innings:

Brainerd	000	000	100	1	8	4
Little Falls	202	301	00x	8	9	1

Batteries—Bush, Carlson and Gas-kill; Wood and Armstrong. Umpires—Ball and Hall.

Don't Blame Brainerd

Fans should not blame the Brainerd management for the state of affairs at Little Falls on the Fourth. Hier promised faithfully to pitch and on July 2 had wired to Cook he would surely pitch at Little Falls on the Fourth. In addition he was to bring to Little Falls to play with Brainerd a hard hitting outfielder.

Brainerd believed to the last Hier would show up. Telephone calls were put in at Brainerd, a car was there ready to take Hier to Little Falls, and scouts were at the Buckman and the Little Falls depot to pilot Hier to the grounds.

But no Hier showed up. Molstad was not on hand as permission had been given him to accept Bemidji's offer to pitch there and it was believed Hier could easily handle Little Falls.

At the last minute Strout and Cook put Rich Bush on the slab. Rich pitched four innings. Bush struck out three heavy hitters in the second inning. Six hits were made off him.

He was succeeded in the fifth inning by Carlson who exchanged places with him. Carlson struck out one man and kept his three hits fairly well scattered.

Considering the whole game and the extent of the disaster because of the non-appearance of Hier, Brainerd did fairly well. Eight hits were made off Wood and Benda quite surprised the Montana man by rapping down a three-bagger in the fourth inning.

Hier has served the Brainerd team well since the league season started, but has lost out with quite a few of the fans by failing to appear on deck for the Little Falls game, a game which carried the largest gate of any game in which Brainerd appeared this season.

Brainerd plays at Verndale Sunday and the western team, flushed with its victory of the Fourth of July, will undoubtedly put up a fine game.

The Husband in Charge.

Wife—"Considering how long I've been away, I think you might have made some preparations to receive me." Husband—"You do me injustice, my dear. I have had the library and parlor thoroughly cleaned and aired." Servant (interrupting)—"Please, sir, the man has come with a barrow for them empty bottles."

STAPLES DROPS OUT OF LEAGUE

Team was the Only One out of Six Teams which Did not Pay in its $100 Forfeit

LAST GAME ON THE FOURTH

Hung on the League so as to Play Fourth of July Game with Verndale at Verndale

Staples, which went through the form of joining and being a part of the Central Minnesota Baseball League, never fulfilled the first part of its obligations and that was to pay into the treasury as a guarantee the forfeit of $100 which has been donated by Brainerd, Little Falls, Crosby, Ironton and Verndale.

Repeatedly asked to do so, they stalled for time. Written pointblank by President Charles Sylvester they pleaded for further time.

Saturday morning, B. C. Barrett of Staples, acting manager, telephoned the secretary-treasurer the team had quit and to cancel the coming Sunday game with Ironton.

This upsets Ironton with no game Sunday unless one can be quickly arranged for by Manager George A. Ridley. Staples has showed little form during its league tenure, never winning a game.

Jesse L. Cross was the team's first manager and later was succeeded by B. C. Barrett, and the latter is the man who telephoned in the demise of the team Saturday morning.

LES BUSH PITCHED, HELPED WIN GAME

Les Bush pitched several innings for Boston, the bean town team defeating Bush's old mates, Philadelphia 9 to 6. Schang was catching.

Opponent, who struck again twice with his right, Willard falling on his hands and knees. When he arose Dempsey crowded him into a corner, and with a right and left to the face sent him to the floor again. As he arose a fusillade of body blows dropped him in a corner where he sat when the bell terminated the round, and led Dempsey to believe that Willard has been counted out.

ROUND TWO.

Ex-Champion's Face Battered.

Dempsey started where he left off, and Willard, with a big cut under his eye, appeared to be in a bad way. He managed to snap a left to Dempsey's face and a puny right uppercut to the chin. Dempsey replied with several body drives and Willard fell partly through the ropes. When he regained his feet he stumbled into a clinch, but Dempsey easily tore loose and proceeded to batter him almost at will, the champion retaliating with but three feeble stabs to the face during the melee.

THIRD ROUND.

Willard Quits.

The final session was simply a series of rapid fire swings which fell on Willard's face and body with pile driving power which left Willard completely helpless. He staggered about the ring and wobbled along the ropes utterly unable to defend himself. Blood bubbled from his mouth with every gasp for breath, while the crowd about the ringside began to yell to Referee Percord to stop it. Just as the bell rang and Willard collapsed in his chair he spat out a tooth and it was seen that he was in bad condition. As he sat looting from side to side, his chief second, Walter Monahan, talked earnestly to him and when Willard nodded his head Monahan walked over and spoke to Referee Percord. The referee threw up his hands and hurried to Dempsey's corner. He gesticulated in the uproar, and finally pulled Dempsey toward the center of the ring before the new champion realized that Willard's second had thrown up the sponge. As soon as he grasped the situation he started for Willard's corner and the late title holder arose and stepped weakly to meet him. They shook hands and Willard muttered something in reply to Dempsey's remarks, and the fight had passed into history.

When Boston Was in Trouble.

In 1774, on the 1st of June, the Boston port bill went into operation. At noon the harbor was closed against all vessels and business was suspended. In a 20 days' notice the citizens of Boston were deprived of their means of gaining a living. Indignation ran high throughout the colonies, contributions were raised in other cities for their relief, and the people of Marblehead offered the Boston merchants the use of their wharves.

BEAUTY SECRETS!

Where she gets her good looks, her healthy skin, her pink cheeks, is known to every one, because it is apparent that it is not due to cosmetics, paint and powder. But the true womanly beauty comes from good health, and this good health is a woman's secret.

Health comes with good physical machinery and good spirits, an active digestion. A body free from pains and aches comes with a tonic known for over fifty years as the best "temperance" tonic and nerve for woman—namely, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It can be obtained in any drug store in liquid or tablet form, or send 10c to Dr. Pierce Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Cleansing of the intestinal tract is important. Take castor oil or select a vegetable pill. Such a one is composed of May-apple, leaves of aloe, root of jalap, and made into tiny sugar-coated pellets, to be had at every drug store as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

WHO DOES the BUYING FOR YOUR FAMILY?

There is someone in your family who has a big responsibility.

Food to buy for the table; clothes for the children and grown-ups; new household utensils, linen, furniture, books and all the hundred and one little things for which the family income is spent.

In most families, one person does the bulk of the buying. And it is that person's job to see that the money is well spent—that you all get full value for every cent that goes out.

The success of a family depends on wise buying just as the success of a business does.

Wise buying means intelligent buying. It is necessary to have knowledge of goods and stores.

The best way to get this knowledge is by reading advertisements. They tell you what is new and good. They tell you where and when to buy to advantage.

Not only the person who does the buying but every member of the family should read advertisements. It is the duty of all the others to help the one who does the buying by pointing out advertisements of new goods and giving all the information possible as to tastes and styles and values.

Advertisements are published for your benefit. Make use of them by reading them.
